FROM ONE WOMAN TO ANOTHER

International Women's Day is a good reminder to celebrate the women we know, love or are inspired by. Here, some of our favourites share another woman's advice they've never forgotten...

SAVANNAH MILLER

Fashion designer

'The woman I've always turned to in times of business and personal hardship is my stepmother, Kelly Hoppen. She is a fierce advocate of positivity and never giving up. She makes no time for wallowing and self-pity. When I've taken a knock, her message has always been: you are bigger than this one moment in your life. You can start from the beginning if you need to. The only obstacle in your way is your mindset.

It may sound harsh, but it's the truest advice I have ever been given, and I now credit my determination for 100% of my success.'

Savannah Miller is the founder and creator of womenswear brand Vivere (viverelondon.com)
